

I wish to express my appreciation for company's like PC Parts, because there are not many businesses out there willing to take a chance on hiring someone who has come right out of prison and living in a halfway house. PC Parts is one of those rare companies that you don't see much of anymore. The people that own the company and run the company really want to help people who have been gone thru incarceration or other difficulties. What is impressive is that these people don't just talk the talk, they walk the walk, and give people second chances who desperately need it. I know because I have gone thru this transition myself, and it is extremely difficult for any felon to find a job right after he gets out of prison. A lot of companies and people say they are willing to give people a chance if they really have changed and paid for the mistakes, but from my experience there are very few businesses who would even talk to me once they found out I had just got out of prison and was living in a halfway house. The people at PC Parts care about their employees, and want them to succeed and get back on their feet. I have been working at PC Parts for about 10 weeks, and their business culture fosters a positive environment where everyone has a great attitude and cares about their fellow co-workers. To go even further I know the owner and management do a lot of charity and community work in the evenings and weekends. They believe in what their doing and live it in their business and personal life, and it is clearly reflected in all the people they have helped like myself get a second chance to be a positive member of society, and feel good about themselves again.

Sincerely, Keith Getty
